

We give gladly to help with hunger relief in many ways. Here are some of the programs supported through your contributions.

Doug Sensabaugh
Hunger Action Enabler
No. 19

West Rockingham Food Pantry opened its doors to the community March 26, 2009, almost a year ago. Eleven families were served on that day and by October more than 49 families received 2,116 pounds of food. With the cooperation of 10 churches, 3 Ruritan Clubs and a Boy Scout Troop, the hungry living in west Rockingham County have a lifeline. Those served include children to the elderly to the homeless and an abused women's shelter. The pantry has become an essential part of a community that cares for each other with great compassion.

The Valley Mission located in Staunton, continues to be a vital lifeline for the lonely, hungry and homeless in Augusta County. Their increased capacity houses 85 people for short periods of time until they are able to be on their own. Many churches have committed to provide regular meals and other groups do periodic meals as they are able. New programs help people sustain their dignity such as a "Giving Library," a new Thrift Store in Waynesboro, expanded single women's dorm and single rooms for families. The Mission was also recognized by philanthropists as a worthwhile agency to support.

Jefferson County Community Ministries in Charles Town, WV, is a cooperative ministry of local churches assisting people in need in Jefferson County. For 25 years, they have fed, clothed and provided financial assistance and winter warmth to nearly 3,200 families. They also cooperate with other state and local agencies to provide this support. Their Food Pantry collects and distributes food, personal hygiene items, and household cleaning supplies on a regular basis.

Kingsway Help Center and Rockbridge Area Relief Association, located in Rockbridge County, VA, provide a much needed service to the communities in and around Lexington. The two food pantries provide hunger relief to the poor and the hungry who are in need. With the support of churches and community groups around Rockbridge County and Shenandoah Presbytery, fewer people need go hungry.

We give gladly to help with hunger relief in many ways. Here are some of the programs supported through your contributions.

Doug Sensabaugh
Hunger Action Enabler
No. 19

West Rockingham Food Pantry opened its doors to the community March 26, 2009, almost a year ago. Eleven families were served on that day and by October more than 49 families received 2,116 pounds of food. With the cooperation of 10 churches, 3 Ruritan Clubs and a Boy Scout Troop, the hungry living in west Rockingham County have a lifeline. Those served include children to the elderly to the homeless and an abused women's shelter. The pantry has become an essential part of a community that cares for each other with great compassion.

The Valley Mission located in Staunton, continues to be a vital lifeline for the lonely, hungry and homeless in Augusta County. Their increased capacity houses 85 people for short periods of time until they are able to be on their own. Many churches have committed to provide regular meals and other groups do periodic meals as they are able. New programs help people sustain their dignity such as a "Giving Library," a new Thrift Store in Waynesboro, expanded single women's dorm and single rooms for families. The Mission was also recognized by philanthropists as a worthwhile agency to support.

Jefferson County Community Ministries in Charles Town, WV, is a cooperative ministry of local churches assisting people in need in Jefferson County. For 25 years, they have fed, clothed and provided financial assistance and winter warmth to nearly 3,200 families. They also cooperate with other state and local agencies to provide this support. Their Food Pantry collects and distributes food, personal hygiene items, and household cleaning supplies on a regular basis.

Kingsway Help Center and Rockbridge Area Relief Association, located in Rockbridge County, VA, provide a much needed service to the communities in and around Lexington. The two food pantries provide hunger relief to the poor and the hungry who are in need. With the support of churches and community groups around Rockbridge County and Shenandoah Presbytery, fewer people need go hungry.